Growing Pains Led One of the Largest Produce Wholesalers in New York to Change ERP Software

CHICAGO, ILL., May 20, 2016 – In March 2016, D'Arrigo Bros. of New York, Inc. transitioned to Produce Pro Software's ERP software solution. Having strong roots serving the New York Metropolitan area for over 50 years, D'Arrigo Bros. of New York was looking for a long term solution to continue and contribute to future growth of their business.

"We looked at several different software systems over a period of time," explained Kevin D'Arrigo. "What truly sets Produce Pro Software apart was that it is built specifically for the produce industry. With perishable items you need to move quickly and accurately and this system supports us in that endeavor."

D'Arrigo added, "Their reputation absolutely preceded themselves and for good reason. The team at Produce Pro is efficient, innovative and personable. Their employees truly engrain themselves in your operation to make sure they have a full understanding how unique the client is."

D'Arrigo Bros. of New York prides themselves on supplying the highest quality fruits and vegetables to retailers and foodservice customers alike. With an industry specific software system running their business operations, now they can take that sense of service to a whole new level with several features including:

- Real-time Inventory Management and Traceability
- Mobile Applications
- Pricing, Sales Order Entry, and E-commerce

"In the short period of time since we went live with Produce Pro, operations have steadily improved which in turn has made everyone's job easier. Not to mention, the traceability aspects of the system have provided a lot more clarity internally," concluded D'Arrigo.

"With every customer we view the relationship as a long term business partnership. We look forward to supporting D'Arrigo Bros. of New York for many years to come, commented Dave Donat, Produce Pro President."
